Football Opens This Monday

Total Of 63 Games Scheduled,
With Play Through August 19th

Plan Playoffs From August 20 - 29

Play for the 1958 season in the Crawford County Football League opens next Monday evening at 7 p. m. at the lighted diamond at Memorial Recreation Area with another game scheduled for 9 p. m. The defending league champion Kelsey, should be a tough team this year with Roscommon's best on their roster. Playoff champions, Otis, has collapsed, with some of their players on some of the league teams. Second place Mac's, has lost some key players last year's squad, but may have ample replacements at some of the positions. With the addition of Bob Gilchrist, former Nelson Oil Co. Millikin Construction looks as a powerhouse at the present. Smiggins and Bear Archery should have good teams, with De- being somewhat improved over last year. Little is known about the entry at the present time.

The sixty-three game schedule is a tussle between De- and AuSable Souvenir of Frederic with Smiggins' meeting in construction in the second game of the evening. Following is the complete season's schedule:

A Certified Public Accountant employed by a Detroit C.P.A. firm announced this week that he was opening an office in Grayling to serve the business of this area.

Mr. Peterson, 37, has been until now employed by a Detroit C.P.A. firm. He served two and a half years in the Navy Sea Bees as a dispenser, stockkeeper, and married. A stepson is in the U. S. Air Force and a step daughter is deceased but the Petersons are bringing up a grandson. They also have a adopted daughter.

The new C.P.A. is a graduate of the Walsh Institute of Accounting in Detroit and has been a C.P.A. since 1952 in Michigan and was also made a C.P.A. in Texas in 1954. He is a member of the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants.

Mr. Peterson has had 12 years experience in public auditing and six years work as a tax specialist. He served two and a half years in the Navy Sea Bees as a dispenser, stockkeeper, and married. A stepson is in the U. S. Air Force and a step daughter is deceased but the Petersons are bringing up a grandson. They also have a adopted daughter.

The new C.P.A. began public accounting in 1946 and received his C.P.A. in 1952. He then located in Houston, Texas and received his C.P.A. in 1952. He then returned to Michigan to settle in Alpena and in 1957 returned to Detroit.

Mr. Peterson said that he and his family both prefer life in the smaller town instead of the big cities. He plans to move his family here to make their home in the very near future.

Kiwanis Club Notes

Six members of the Marion Kiwanis Club attended the Monday night meeting of the Grayling Kiwanis Club. The meeting was held at the Grayling Kiwanis Club and was a very successful one.

Following dinner, President Lorne Douglas made several announcements and then introduced program Chairman Fred Houghton, who presented John Hestling of the Marion Club of this division chairman of the Support of Churches Committee. After a short talk he presented Gail Dred of Marion who spoke on the church's place in the community and what it means. He also covered what he designated as the three T's which each person should present to his own church—his time, his talent and his treasure.

In view of June being Dairy Month, Les Hunter centered the table with containers of chocolate and homogenized milk as well as buttermilk and orange juice. The menu also included a cottage cheese salad and was finished off with strawberry shortcake topped with whipped cream. Many of the Dairy Month banners also decorated the dining room.

Captain Matt Morris Drowns in Canada

Funeral services were held in Clio on Tuesday of this week. Captain Morris was an avid trout fisherman and archery deer hunter and spent much time in the Grayling area. He was well known by many local people.

JACK PINE'S STUMP

Jack Pine is sure that he will never be asked to address a graduating class of any sort, at any time. For some reason, very few of those who write newspaper columns—even the student ones—are deemed worthy of giving a commencement address. Perhaps this is because writers of columns are generally cynical (with the happy and notable exception of the Detroit Free Press' James Pooler). And cynics of any kind should not be allowed to spoil the last day of the Educational Process, a process by which students are led to believe that they have been taught everything they will ever need to know. Professional educators generally have a horror that this might happen. Which is why you seldom read of columnists speaking at graduation exercises. Better to have some "authority" or another educator. The fallacy in this is obvious. Any newspaper readership study shows that the columnists consistently will obtain greater readership than, say, the latest pronouncement of the Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission. But when Jack Pine, a poor newspaper columnist in any man's book, is asked to say a "few words" to graduating seniors here or anywhere else, he might say something like this:

—You don't have a complete high school education if you don't know the Scientific Method and how to use it. Or if you can't give an extemporaneous speech. Or if you think that either your high school education or a worthless education is a waste of time.

—If you ever say to yourself, "I know what I want to say (or write), but I can't put it into words," you don't have a complete high school education.

—If you think all television is poor or all television is good... if you think you don't need to know the rules of grammar to make a living... if you think your home town is the "outpost of the world" or the "finest community" ever devised... if you dance the "chicken" but not the waltz... if you hate classical music or Elvis Presley... if you don't know the significance of the date 1958... can't name the romance languages and their sources... or know the meaning of silviculture... you don't have a complete high school education.

—If you don't have a complete high school education if you don't know the historical significance of May Day... or if you think the word "graduate" is always followed by the word "retire"...

—If you think that the Big Board or can't translate 117 5/8 into dollars and cents... if you don't know what is meant by Senatorial Courtesy or why the Sino-American fall... or why killing mosquitoes means more than to kill later... if you think that "platonic" means "loveless" only... or that religion is for women, kids, the uneducated, the psychotic, and the weak... you don't have a complete high school education.

—If you can't figure out the application of algebra to everyday living... if you think geometry is only for engineers, astronomy for aggeheads and bird watching for idiots... if you think it right to use "ain't" because it is in the dictionary or that police officers just spoil your fun or that ancient history is "old stuff" or that short hand is necessary to education... if you think that fast driving shows you've got lots of nerve... or the first thing you want to do after graduation is get drunk... if you think that most politicians are crooked... don't know the meaning of "per se"... if you think it is impossible to make a million bucks these days or that money will bring you happiness or that poor people are lazy or that dirty stories make you popular or that agreement with your troubles means sympathy or that your parents weren't ever kids and don't

It An Auto Recession?

"To me this is an automobile recession," writes J. Livingston, the well-known business and financial analyst. This simply reflects the fact that the heavy up in automobile sales is the darkest spot in the economic picture. It throws its shadow a long way. It is largely responsible for pushing steel production down less than half of the industry's capacity. It is felt, directly or indirectly, in a long list of enterprises, large and small.

Mr. Livingston also points out that the sag in auto sales can't entirely be attributed to a lack of money. Personal income, despite the recession, is only slightly down from the peak. Savings are increasing, as are sales of savings bonds. And, he writes: "The dollar, long scorned in an inflation atmosphere, is low priced."

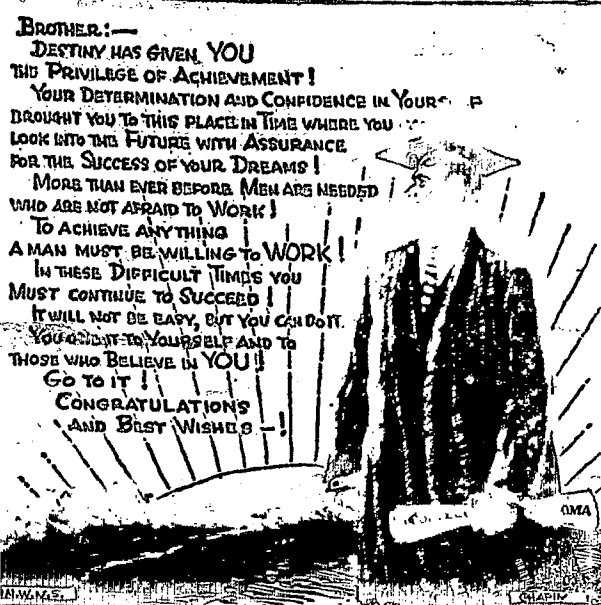

The most debated economic question of the hour, therefore, is "What's wrong in Detroit?" There are endless to say, many assorted answers, some of which are in direct conflict. But just about everyone is sure at something basic has gone awry. And the volume of criticism directed at the principal automobile makers has grown apace in late months, rightly or wrongly.

Many critics now think that the industry's policy-making grievously misjudged the American appetite for ever-bigger, ever-more-expensive, ever-flashier cars. In support of this argument they point to the steady growth in imports of small, economy cars. Sales of these, it is true, amounted to only five per cent of the U. S. market last year, or 200,000 units. But that's twice as many as were sold in 1956, 10 times as many as the 1950 score—and the prospect is that the current year will see another increase in the face of the sharp drop in sales of American makes. Another significant fact is that the Rambler, the small American car, has shown improved sales.

Tide, the advertising magazine, offers three reasons for depressed car buying. The American people, it thinks, "aren't ready to go into hock for an outdated status symbol; they have other things they want to spend their money on; and many of them just don't care for the product they're being offered." That "status symbol" matter may be highly important. It used to be that the difference between the lower-priced cars and the higher-priced cars was the difference between a bungalow and a mansion. Now more and more talk is heard to the effect that all cars are practically alike, and that you can hardly tell one from another on the road.

There is reason to believe that the proportion of the consumer dollar spent for cars has been due to drop and to stay down. People want TV and hi-fi sets; they want boats and trips abroad; they want all manner of labor-saving devices; they want more recreational facilities at home, ranging the gamut from barbecue outfits to patios. So it seems only natural that they'll make their cars last longer and that, when replacement time arrives, they will look for a vehicle that costs less to buy, operate and keep in running order.

There is no end of speculation as to what the big three auto makers plan to do to combat the trend. So far, these makers haven't said much. The 1959 models will be bigger and more powerful than ever and, perhaps, more expensive. But more observers of the Detroit scene think that the economy idea is beginning to take on weight. The U. S. automobile industry has had a great and well-deserved reputation for vitality and for the ability to change when change is in order. The universal hope is that the industry will read the signs aright—whatever they may point to—and pull triumphantly out of its slump.

Local traffic can use soil-cement the same day it's laid. No costly delays.

For Shiawassee County...

Soil-cement is the low-cost road that grows stronger-year by year!

County road crews can all but forget about the roads paved with soil-cement. They hold up like no other low-cost pavement ever laid.

Soil-cement is strong right from the start, ready for traffic fast. And it keeps getting stronger! Tests on roads everywhere show it often doubles in strength after years of use.

Soil-cement is a precision-built road — stronger inch for inch than any other pavement short of concrete. No softening, no break-up after a hard winter. It's the 20-year-plus pavement. Maintenance costs stay low.

Initial cost? That's low, too, because roadbuilders work with native soils. Paving is quick and easy. Soil, cement and water are mixed on the ground and rolled solid. Local contractors are building as much as two miles a day.

That's why engineers all over Michigan are converting more mileage to soil-cement every year. Ask your road commission for the figures on your county.

Notice was received by Headquarters Fifth United States Army of a Superior rating for the annual inspection of the unit held on 3 April 1958. Alumni Party particular tribute to the Michigan Alumni Church ladies for their efforts in serving the enjoyable turkey banquet. Tribute was also paid to the various committees for the successful planning of the party.
Les Hunter, class of 1938, chairman of the entertainment, then introduced Maureen Sheehan and the Harmonica Dons whose clever musical and dancing acts climaxed the dinner program. The response to the professional entertainers evidenced considerable youth in the old grads yet!
The evening-long program then ended with dancing in the banquet hall with music by June Taylor and the professional entertainers.
If the reception of the group as evidenced by their jovial conversations during and after the party is to be accepted as evidence, the 15th annual reunion of the Grayling Alumni got together at Grayling High School.
Among the out-of-town alumni present for the occasion were Lois Barnes, Roscommon, Archie and Luanna Cripps of Dearborn, Ruth Benware Gance, Cornelia Melstrup Smith, Ruth Cruz of Alma, Ella Mae Cronk, Louise Annis Lineman, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Martin of Lansing, Gail Dayvenport of Grand Rapids, Iris Kunz of Waukegan, Ill., James Knibbs of Roscommon, Elsie Davis of West Branch, Wesley Sammons of Lansing, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Hanson of Detroit, Wilda Failing Wood of Midland, Augusta Wall of Detroit, Kenneth Peterson of Flint, Rose Webb of Pontiac, Dewey Courts of Royal Oak, Ted B. further details.
Mr. Wood turned the meeting over to Mr. Howard Somers, our consultant from Central Michigan College who has worked with us all year. Mr. Somers urged us to all make Grayling attractive and friendly to the tourist this summer. Launch a "Smile Campaign" for everyone.
Mr. Somers stated that statistics show that 57% of tourists coming to Michigan this year want to go sight seeing, 23% will come for visiting, 22% want to relax. In Grayling we have everything for all three groups. We have two of the most beautiful streams very beautiful inland lakes, good motels, and Hotel golf, swimming, fishing, boating, etc. We have canoe trips down the AuSable and Manistee, and many places of interest like Hartwick Pines, Bear Archery, Fish Hatchery, etc. We must point these things out to our tourists and get them to see and spend more time here in Grayling. Many tourists are also prospecting for locating industry.
Forty percent of the people take their vacation in the summer. The tourist business in the U. S. will be over 20 billion dollars this year. Michigan does the fifth largest tourist business in the U. S. Let's all cooperate and help Grayling get a big share this year. Don't forget to "SMILE!"

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

The Woodchuck Wouldn't "Chuck"

Lady called up our newspaper and asked how to get a woodchuck out of her garage. I referred her to young Chip Williams, our Field and Wildlife Editor.

"That's easy," says Chip. "Just roll some bread into pellets, and make a trail of them leading out of the garage."

Next day she called Chip again. "You sure are smart," she coo-ed, "to know a woodchuck with a trail of bread crumbs. Now I've got two woodchucks in the garage!"

From where I sit, sometimes "expert advice" turns out to be not so expert. Reminds me of those who are always ready to advise us how to relax...how to work...whether or not to prefer coffee (for instance) to a glass of beer. I think a lot of us ought to think twice before advising people to do this thing or that thing. In the long run, it will make us all better neighbors.

(Too Late For Last Week)

Good news first, Babe Lloyd is very much better and will be home Thursday if all goes well.

John Hartley has improved so much he is ready for skin graft. They both want to thank all their friends and neighbors for the flowers and cards.

And now we move up to Newman's Corners' chills, chills. It might have cost them $400, their car, some food and clothesline, but they came out safe and were not harmed. What I am writing about, they were held up last Tuesday, the 20th, by three escapees from Camp LaVictoire.

The good samaritan of the neighborhood was our good friend Bill Brown from Ann Arbor, who loaned his Oldsmobile to Joe and Jean until they get their station wagon back. We will be seeing Bill a lot as he is going to be a farm hand, having bought a big farm on the Manistee road. 10 years from now one Santa Claus won't be able to trim all those trees.

Chuck and Lucile Foster and friends, Mr. and Mrs. H. Kirkland all from Oakland spent the week end at their cabin.

Maynard La Fayette Nelson from Indiana is the first to arrive at the Lloyd Anderson's cabin for the P. and W. Pump Annual Sales and Service meeting at Traverse City and a two day recreation and rest at Lloyd Anderson's cabin out here at Bear Lake.

The Hendersons are here for the summer. They spent the winter in Fla.

Tommy and Kay Thomas from Lake Orion are at their cabin on the river.

Earl D. spent a few days in Flint, Ortonville and Hazel Park. John and Olga Carr from Lansing have bought a house trailer and moved it next door so they will be coming up a lot.

Michelson Memorial Church News

At a recent Fourth Quarterly Conference, reports from all officers and organizations of the church summed up the activities of the year just ending, and after a long day of singing, prayer, and the reading of the scriptures, the church closed its session with a benediction.

May has been an exceedingly busy month at Michelson Memorial, with nearly all organizations holding final meetings, electing and installing new officers and making other preparations for the coming summer months. Early in the month the Light Brigade presented their annual reports to the Women's Society, concluding the service with a beautiful and impressive candle-lighting ceremony.

Members attending the church school institute in Traverse City on May 24 from our Branch were Mrs. Leonard Jensen, Mrs. Charles Vandenberg and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Babbitt. The meeting was in charge of our District Church Director of Religious Education Mrs. Beth Johnston of East Jordan.

Sunday, June 8th, children's day, there will be baptismal services in the Audible River in front of the Babbitt home.

The Zion's League held a hill-top service which took place at the down river tower. A drama was presented, "Eternal Life," during the worship period, under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Babbitt.
